Customer Spotlight

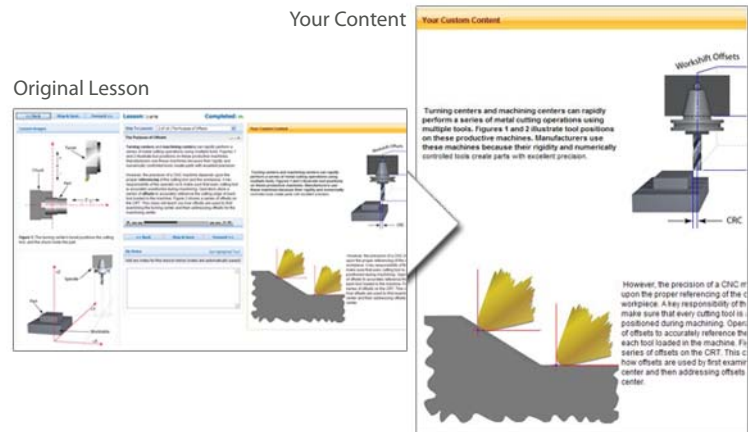

"We're continually looking for ways to optimize productivity for our manufacturer clients. Tooling U's training tools allow us to verify and account for gains in expertise, while our sales force gets to access the knowledge on a 24x7 basis."

— Jeffrey Holst,
Kennametal's Director of Organizational Effectiveness

Offer your expertise, for your people.

When you choose a training solution, you are also considering options for delivering company-specific knowledge to the right people. You need a means for integrating your own custom content into your program. You need a simple way to provide consistent training across all your learning paths.

If you have the content, we've got the means for helping you deliver it.

Editing tools for existing classes. Work with a range of user-friendly authoring tools and templates to add your company-specific content to pre-existing classes. Tie general Tooling U theory to your specific processes or product features.

Upload services for pre-developed content. Use the Tooling U formatting guide and template to convert and author your pre-existing content for web-based delivery. Create online content that fits seamlessly in our system.

Complete content services from our design staff. Gain access to our own content development resources to transform your expertise into web-based training of the highest quality. Deliver your training, to your people, anywhere in the world.
